Decolonizing Technologies, Reprogramming Education

Unceded Musqueam (xʷməθkʷəy̓əm) Territory
University of British Columbia, Vancouver | 16-18 May 2019 | hastac2019.org

Organized by the Institute for Critical Indigenous Studies at the University of British Columbia, the Department of English at University of Victoria, and HASTAC (Graduate Center at the City University of New York and Dartmouth College)

On 16-18 May 2019, the Humanities, Arts, Science, and Technology Alliance and Collaboratory (HASTAC), in partnership with the Institute for Critical Indigenous Studies at the University of British Columbia (UBC) and the Department of English at the University of Victoria (UVic), are guests on the traditional, ancestral, and unceded territory of the hə́n̓q̓ə́min̓əm̓-speaking Musqueam (xʷməθkʷəy̓əm) people, facilitating this conference about decolonizing technologies and reprogramming education. The conference holds up and supports Indigenous scholars and knowledges, centering work by Indigenous women and women of colour. It engages how technologies are, can be, and have been decolonized. How, for instance, are extraction technologies repurposed for resurgence? Or, echoing Ellen Cushman, how do we decolonize digital archives? Equally important, how do decolonial and anti-colonial practices shape technologies and education? How, following Kimberlé Crenshaw, are such practices intersectional? How do they correspond with what Grace Dillon calls Indigenous Futurisms? And how do they foster what Eve Tuck and Wayne Yang describe as an ethic of incommensurability, unsettling not only assumptions of innocence but also discourses of reconciliation?

Code of Conduct

In this place and territory, we honour our commitments to ethical relationships and rigorous exchange of ideas that further the aims and sovereignties of Indigenous individuals, communities, and nations and the goals of “Decolonizing Technologies, Reprogramming Education.” As the host committee, we are seeking to create a space that is free from harassment and violence, physical or otherwise. We ask for your support in this, and we take our direction from the First Nations House of Learning’s mandate, which follows the Longhouse Teachings of Respect, Relationships, Responsibility, and Reverence. All of this is in keeping with longstanding protocols, relationships, and commitments established here. We hope attendees come with a generous spirit, a deep sense of ethics, and a genuine enthusiasm for the work we will all be doing together.

About the Conference

Territory Acknowledgement
We would like to acknowledge that the University of British Columbia is located on the traditional, ancestral, and unceded territory of the Musqueam people. We thank the Musqueam Nation for its hospitality and support of our work.

We would also like to acknowledge with respect the Lkwungen-speaking peoples on whose traditional territory the University of Victoria stands and the Songhees, Esquimalt, and WSÁNEĆ peoples whose historical relationships with the land continue to this day.

HASTAC wishes to express our deep gratitude to the Musqueam people for allowing us to engage digital territories on this unceded land. Changing the way we teach and learn means challenging the colonial foundations of education and technology. We are grateful for the opportunity to do this work here. Thank you.

Logo and Program Cover
Musqueam (xʷməθkʷəy̓əm) artist, Diamond Point, designed the conference logo for HASTAC 2019: "As an emerging artist, I intend to create artwork that connects the old with the new and is constantly changing the more life experience I gain. I wanted to represent that idea with this piece. I describe my artwork as contemporary because my designs are current but also respectful of traditional design elements. I wanted the logo to convey the conference’s theme, ‘Decolonizing Technologies, Reprogramming Education.’ The Thunderbird not only represents UBC, but also represents the theme of the conference. Thunderbird is known to be highly intelligent, carries out protocol, and asserts justice into communities in need. I thought this fit well with the concept of decolonization. Within the Thunderbird design I have incorporated Coast Salish design elements in order to showcase the beautiful artwork our ancestors have created for thousands of years. In a contemporary aspect, I decided to make the circles within Thunderbird pixelated. The circle represents the symbol of life. Today, technology has become such a big influence within day-to-day life. Technology connects all of us. In saying that, sometimes being so technologically connected can come with cautions. Thunderbird is able to protect us and give us strength moving forward for the future generations to come."

The program cover and posters for HASTAC 2019 were designed by Ricky Castanedo Laredo, who is also the Art Department Manager of CiTR Station and the Art Director of Discorder Magazine at UBC.

First Nations Longhouse
The First Nations Longhouse is one of the conference’s two primary venues. All plenary presentations will occur here, and it will also be the site of all catered events. The Longhouse opened in 1993 and is a prize-winning building that reflects the architectural traditions of the Northwest Coast and operates as a venue for public programming, student and program meetings, and many other functions. It also houses the Indigenous Teacher Education Program (NITEP) and the First Nations House of Learning (FNHL) and hosts a range of student organizations at UBC.

AMS Student Nest
The Alma Mater Society (AMS) Student Nest is one of the conference’s two primary venues. Most HASTAC 2019 presentations will occur in The Nest. The Nest opened its doors on June 1, 2015. The building represents the determination and focus of UBC students, and the leadership skills of the student executives, who pioneered the project from start to finish. It’s a student-centered hub of activity, providing a welcoming space for all students to eat, shop, study, and socialize while leading the way in sustainability practices and goals.

HASTAC
HASTAC (Humanities, Arts, Science, and Technology Alliance and Collaboratory) is an interdisciplinary community of humanists, artists, social scientists, scientists, and technologists changing the way we teach and learn. Its 16,000+ members from over 400 affiliate organizations share ideas, news, tools, research, insights, pedagogy, methods, and projects, and collaborate on various HASTAC initiatives. Founded in 2002, HASTAC is reputed to be the world’s first and oldest academic social network with annual pageview counts approaching the half-million mark. HASTAC is governed by a dynamic, interdisciplinary Steering Committee. Its leadership and administration is shared between hubs located at the Graduate Center at the City University of New York (CUNY) and Dartmouth College.

Conference Coordinators
The lead coordinators of HASTAC 2019 are David Gaertner (University of British Columbia) and Jentery Sayers (University of Victoria), with contributions and support from Christine Wasiak (First Nations House of Learning at UBC); Autumn Schnell (University of British Columbia); Jo-Anne Rockwood, Rachel Loucks, and Lisa Kanavaros (UBC Conferences and Accommodation); Dale Gintner, Louise Soga, Candice Yu, and Daniel Heath Justice (Institute for Critical Indigenous Studies at UBC); Kailey Fukushima, Jodi Litvin, Hector Lopez, Alexandra Martin, Patricia Ormond, Sam Postuk, Dailyn Ramirez, and Jennifer Santos (Department of English at UVic); and Cathy Davidson, Brinker Ferguson, Liz Grumbach, Katina Rogers, and Jacqueline Wernimont (HASTAC).

Programming Committee
We would like to thank all members of the HASTAC 2019 programming committee: Jeffrey Ansloos (Ontario Institute for Studies in Education, University of Toronto); Candis Callison (Graduate School of Journalism, University of British Columbia); Karrmen Crey (Stó:lō, Cheam Band; School of Communication, Simon Fraser University); David Gaertner (First Nations and Indigenous Studies, University of British Columbia); Michelle Habell-Pallán (Gender, Women, and Sexuality Studies, and Public Scholarship, University of Washington); Autumn Schnell (Gwich’in Nation; First Nations and Indigenous Studies, University of British Columbia); Gerry Lawson (Oral History and Language Lab, University of British Columbia); Debra Martel (First Nations House of Learning, University of British Columbia); Megan Meredith-Lobay (Advanced Research Computing, University of British Columbia); Deanna Reder (First Nations Studies and English, Simon Fraser University); Daisy Rosenblum (First Nations and Endangered Languages, University of British Columbia); Alana Sayers (Hupacasath and Alexander First Nations; University of Victoria); Jentery Sayers (English, University of Victoria); June Scudeler (Métis; First Nations Studies and Gender, Sexuality, and Women’s Studies, Simon Fraser University); and, Robina Thomas (Indigenous Academic and Community Engagement, University of Victoria).

Volunteers
We would also like to thank our amazing team of HASTAC 2019 volunteers, led by volunteer coordinator, Tracey El Hajj (University of Victoria): Janni Aragon, Natalie Boldt, Kailey Fukushima, Stefan Higgins, Ashley Howard, and Sam Postuk (University of Victoria); Kashema Hutchinson, Gustavo Jimenez, Christina Katopodis, Sujung Kim, Adashima Oyo, and Siqi Tu (City University of New York); and Caolan Barr, Rachael Bullock, Janet Calderon, Jennifer Cameron, Patricia Derbyshire, Ben Dixon, Jaymyn La Vallee, Jessie Lackstein, Parboti Roy, Autumn Schnell, and Eric Zheng (University of British Columbia).

Partners and Sponsors

Salishan Catering

All catering at HASTAC 2019 is provided in the First Nations Longhouse by Salishan Catering, which began in 1993 when the owner Denise Sparrow, a citizen of the Musqueam First Nation, applied her cultural knowledge to packaging and selling salmon. The salmon business flourished and eventually transformed into a catering business when her aunt directed her to set up a food stand at a pow-wow . . . thus began Salishan Catering. Salishan fuses traditional Musqueam cultural knowledge and foods with modern foods, creating a menu unique to the catering industry in the Lower Mainland of Vancouver.

Salishan’s menu for HASTAC 2019 is:

- For Thursday’s reception (8pm in the Longhouse): Musqueam Nation trio dips (beet raita with mint, cumin, and cardamom; feta with herb dip; and lemony white bean dip); vegetable platter (asparagus, carrots, peppers, celery, broccoli, cauliflower, green beans, snap peas, and cherry tomatoes) with roasted red pepper hummus dip, assorted olives, and fried chick peas; smoked salmon with bannock; and soapberry punch with mineral water
- For breakfast on Friday (8am in the Longhouse): cinnamon bannock, assorted muffins and scones, and a variety of fruit with dip, plus coffee and tea
- For lunch on Friday (12pm in the Longhouse): alder-grilled salmon with tomato jam, bannock, salad, and a dessert square; rosemary and horseradish-crusted flank steak with red onion marmalade, coleslaw, bannock, and a dessert square; and grilled vegetable kebobs with quinoa and cucumber salad, hummus, bannock, and a desert square; plus soapberry punch with mineral water
- For breakfast on Saturday (8am in the Longhouse): variety of tea breads, coffee cakes, granola bars, croissants, and banana cookies, plus fruit with dip and coffee and tea
• For lunch on Saturday (11:30am in the Longhouse): Indian tacos (vegetarian, with bannock, chili, lettuce, tomato, light cheese, and sour cream) and stinging nettle pesto-marinated chicken with bannock, salad, and a dessert square; plus soapberry punch with mineral water

• For Saturday’s reception (8pm in the Longhouse): Chinook trio of salmon platter (house-smoked salmon, salmon pate, and maple-glazed salmon nuggets with cream cheese, lemon, capers, and onions, plus bannock or rye bread); grilled vegetable platter (eggplant, zucchini, carrots, fennel, green beans, peppers, and cherry tomatoes drizzled with blackberry and lemony olive oil glaze); juniper berry-glazed Venison meatballs and sausages; cucumber cups with toasted hazelnut, red pepper hummus, and sea asparagus; and domestic cheese boards (including Swiss, Cheddar, Havarti, Brie, and smoked Gouda with grapes and crackers); plus soapberry punch with mineral water

During meals, elders are invited to eat first, followed by presenters and then audience members. Thank you.

First Nations Creations
Author, artist, and jewelry designer, Melaney Gleeson-Lyall, from the Point family at Musqueam, is a vendor at HASTAC 2019. Melaney will be selling BC First Nations products as well as some of her own work.

Find Melaney’s table at the First Nations Longhouse throughout the conference.

Iron Dog Books
Iron Dog Books is also a vendor at HASTAC 2019. They are a mobile bookstore owned and operated by Cliff and Hilary Atleo, based primarily at Simon Fraser University, Burnaby, in Tsleil-Waututh, Skwxwú7mesh, and Musqueam territories (metro Vancouver). Centered on the core belief that books should be affordable and accessible, Iron Dog Books sells new and used fiction, non-fiction, and children's and young adult books from a 2006 Freightliner step van that has been converted to a storefront on wheels. The shop also gratefully accepts donations of secondhand books, which allow Iron Dog Books to donate 20% of the retail value to rural and remote indigenous schools in Nuu Chah Nulth territory on the west side of Vancouver Island.
Cliff and Hilary write: “As indigenous people (Nuu Chah Nulth/Tsimshian and Anishinaabe/Scottish) we care deeply about our home communities and strive always to move forward in a way that benefits our people and our environment. Book ownership and reading are powerful tools for self-determination and engagement—we are so pleased that Iron Dog Books can be part of the next chapter of bookshops.”

Find Iron Dog Books in / near the First Nations Longhouse from 4 to 7pm on Thursday, from 10am to 7pm on Friday, and from 10am to 5:30pm on Saturday.
Registration
Registration for HASTAC 2019 will be open in the First Nations Longhouse on Thursday afternoon (5-6pm), Friday morning (8-11am), and Saturday morning (8-11am). Badges will be available for everyone who registered. Print copies of this program will be available as well.

Accessibility
HASTAC 2019 is a scent-free zone. Signage for wayfinding is provided across campus. Look for “HASTAC 2019” and the conference logo, by Diamond Point.

Wheelchair access to the First Nations Longhouse is via the western door of the Longhouse at 1985 Lower Mall. There is also a ramp approach to the Longhouse at the south end of the Xwi7xwa Library from 1985 West Mall. Both lead to the entrance to Xwi7xwa Library at the foot of the West Mall stairway.

Gender-inclusive, wheelchair-accessible washrooms can be found on floors 1 and 4 of The Nest and also in the First Nations Longhouse. Please see http://bit.ly/equityubc for more information about inclusive washrooms and changerooms on campus. This page also includes a link to a UBC Inclusion Map, which provides information about UBC buildings and breastfeeding spaces, prayer spaces, wheelchair-accessible spaces, and single-user bathrooms on campus. A golf cart is available by request for transportation across campus. To request one, please email info@hastac2019.org or see a HASTAC 2019 coordinator. Finally, microphones are provided in all presentation rooms at HASTAC 2019, with the exception of rooms 2504 and 2506 in The Nest.

Please note that a quiet room is available on Friday and Saturday in The Nest, Room 2514, next to a room (Nest 2515) that participants may use for meetings and discussion. Please also note that all sessions in The Nest are on Level 2. Three elevators are available in the building: two near the entrance on Student Union Boulevard and one near the entrance on University Boulevard.

WiFi
HASTAC 2019 has a dedicated, campus-wide login (CWL) at UBC from May 16th through May 18th. Please use UBC SECURE and don’t forget to click “trust.” The account is amsconf5 and the password is Qw47561$.

Social Media and Photography
At the registration table in the First Nations Longhouse you will find stickers for you to indicate, on your conference badge, whether you’re willing to be photographed, quoted, and/or mentioned on social media during the conference. We ask that all attendees respect requests to not be photographed, mentioned, and/or quoted. A blue sticker on a conference badge means, “do not photograph me.” A yellow sticker on a conference badge means, “do not quote or mention me on social media.” We are using #hastac2019 for the conference hashtag.
Plenary Presentations

We are thrilled to include seven plenary presentations at HASTAC 2019. Each plenary will occur in the Sty-Wet-Tan Great Hall in the First Nations Longhouse. Details about each are below.

Jules Arita Koostachin (Thursday at 6:30pm)

Jules Arita Koostachin (MoshKeKo Cree, Attawapiskat First Nation; University of British Columbia) will give the opening plenary on Thursday, May 16th. The title is, “MooNaHaTihKaaSiWew: Unearthing Spirit”: “The relationship between Indigenous ways of being and story resonate with collective and personal meaning, thus a comprehension of Indigenous epistemological approaches to our stories is fundamental in understanding how Indigenous documentary intersects with our positionality as Indigenous documentarists. Indigenous methodologies and documentary methods are intertwined, and documentary as a storytelling practice has proven to be an effective and powerful form of knowledge exchange, where we as storytellers have created socio-political change by shifting ways of thinking and humanizing our lived experiences. MooNaHaTihKaaSiWew as an InNiNeWak framework allows for an examination of the significance of our own their/herstories and cultural positionality, and how we begin to assert and articulate our stories ourselves, in turn providing an alterNATIVE perspective.”

Kim van der Woerd (Friday at 8:15am)

Kim van der Woerd (’NAMGIS First Nation; Reciprocal Consulting; Simon Fraser University) will give an early morning plenary on Friday, May 17th in collaboration with Jennifer Reddy (Simon Fraser University). The title is, “Evaluation as a Strategy for Transformation and Learning”: “We will present our recent work that explores evaluation as a strategy for transformation and learning. It is the premise of our work that evaluation is undergoing (and driving) a transformation: from definitive answers to complexity-based understanding, and from formulaic approaches to managing tensions in the face of ambiguity and uncertainty. Effective evaluators and evaluative thinkers are increasingly embracing their roles as change-makers and innovators. To achieve this momentous shift in our own program evaluation work requires more than learning new tools and processes—it means expanding our ways of seeing and acting to navigate complex situations and generate transformative outcomes. In the era of the Truth and Reconciliation Commission’s Calls to Action, there is also an urgent need to recognize and re-center Indigenous worldviews and epistemologies in professional and academic fields. Instead of a single dominant Western perspective, evaluators must understand there are a multitude of perspectives and recognize the interconnections between them. This approach, known as ‘two-eyed seeing,’ is necessary when designing culturally responsive evaluation, which is an opportunity to reflect and contribute to the reconciliation movement, social justice, equity, and healing issues between Indigenous peoples and the rest of Canada.”
Marisa Elena Duarte (Friday at 1pm)
Marisa Elena Duarte (Pascua Yaqui/Chicana; Arizona State University) will give an afternoon plenary on Friday, May 17th. The title is, “The Absurdity of Canned Heat: Encountering Technocracy in the Digitization of Humanity”: “In 1921, Dr. Charles Eastman, Santee Dakota, wrote about the absurdity of ‘canned heat’: Euro-Americans attempting to improve their health by staying indoors and relying on mechanical solutions, rather than by developing deeper kinesthetic and spiritual relationships with the natural world. As a metaphor for the encounter between American Indian ways of wellbeing and early American industrialized notions of health, Dr. Eastman’s description of ‘canned heat’ marks the incommensurability of Native North American philosophies and capitalist techno-scientific notions of a good life. As civilized citizenry is increasingly linked to immersion in a technocratic way of being, Indigenous peoples face greater pressure to adopt ICTs for intrinsically relational tasks: sustaining family connections, tribal governance, storywork and teaching, restorative justice work, and radical political organizing. Understanding the absurdity of canned heat in the present gives us a glimpse of how we reconfigure the human being—and our expression of our humanity—under conditions of imperial technocracy.”

Elizabeth LaPensée (Friday at 7pm)
Elizabeth LaPensée (Anishinaabe and Métis; Michigan State University) will give a video plenary on Friday, May 17th. It’s titled, “When Rivers Were Trails: Sovereignty, Nationhood, and Relationality in an Adventure Game”: “In what ways can a digital game reify Indigenous sovereignty, nationhood, and relationality? When Rivers Were Trails is a 2D adventure game from the Indian Land Tenure Foundation developed in collaboration with the Games for Entertainment and Learning Lab at Michigan State University as a compendium to the Lessons of Our Land curriculum. The game was created with Indigenous artists and musicians as well as over twenty Indigenous writers who express their communities in 1890 during the impact of allotment acts which divided lands and displaced nations. This talk describes design in When Rivers Were Trails, such as the adaptation of historical 1890s maps into a user interface conveying an Indigenous worldview of lands now referred to as the United States. Twelve maps act as a record of movement and relation-making as the player travels through Minnesota, the Dakotas, Montana, Idaho, Washington, Oregon, and California, maintaining their physical, emotional, mental, and spiritual wellbeing with foods and medicines. They can contribute to resistances as well as trade with, fish with, hunt with, gift, and honor the people they meet. When Rivers Were Trails offers insight into how to represent Indigenous sovereignty through self-determined intentional game design.”

Melody McKiver (Friday at 8pm)
Melody McKiver is an Anishinaabe musician, media artist, traditional powwow dancer and artist, and arts educator of mixed ancestry who will give a plenary musical performance during the evening of Friday, May 17th. Melody is an enrolled member of Obishikokaang Lac Seul First Nation on their mother’s side, and their father’s family are settler Canadians of Scottish/Lithuanian origins. Melody currently lives and works in the small town of Sioux Lookout in Treaty #3, northwestern Ontario, and has previously resided in Ottawa, Toronto, and St. John’s NL. As a solo performer, Melody explores the range of the viola’s possibilities, spanning from minimalist to danceable, often incorporating laptop processing and looping. Their most recent release is Reckoning EP (2017), which was originally scored for the Article 11 theatre production of the same name and is written for solo viola and electronics. Within media arts, Melody works with digital video and photography to capture images of Indigenous resurgence, and uses this footage both editorially and within video and sound art. They have also worked on a number of documentary films that are currently in production. Melody’s works “Surveillapocalypse” (2014) and “Ga Waabmin Gaye / Nemolnek Elt Ni’nen” (2014) have been screened and installed in Auckland, Brooklyn, Vancouver, Toronto, and Ottawa.

Alana Sayers (Saturday at 10:30am)
Alana Sayers (Hupacasath and Alexander First Nations; University of Victoria) will give a morning plenary on Saturday, May 18th. It’s titled, “Nuu-Chah-Nulth Literary Transformation Masks”: “This talk directly addresses the theme of this conference, ‘Decolonizing Technologies, Reprogramming Education,’ by connecting it to how I explore my own work. I offer a place-based Indigenous methodology to study Indigenous literature in both structure and content. I situate this methodology within my Nation’s epistemological and literary traditions through critical coastal consciousness, which takes the form of ‘Nuu-Chah-Nulth literary transformation masks.’ The form of transformation masks requires readers to better understand the responsibility of story and knowledge beyond the page. My methodology disrupts the individuation of reading and writing as technologies that fundamentally shape the relationship between readers and stories. For Nuu-Chah-Nulth stories to be fully understood, a reader must receive and understand the story beyond this medium. My work also explores how, by amplifying the voices of Indigenous Nations who are ocean people, we shift our understanding of stories and relationship to creation from land-based perspectives and stories that dominate Indigenous Studies and Indigenous Literature.”

Karyn Recollet (Saturday at 1:30pm)
Karyn Recollet (Cree; University of Toronto) will give an afternoon plenary on Saturday, May 18th. The title is, “Land-ing: City Land-based Knowledges for Those on the Move”: Recollet is a Cree woman originally from the Sturgeon Lake First Nation in Saskatchewan. Her research and writing explore Indigenous performance, hip-hop culture, and Indigenous hip hop feminism, with a particular focus on new Indigenities produced in urban hub spaces as they shape solidarity movements and social activism.

Leanne Betasamosake Simpson (Saturday at 7:05pm)
Leanne Betasamosake Simpson (Michi Saagiig Nishnaabeg; Alderville First Nation) will give the closing plenary on Saturday, May 18th. It’s titled, “As We Have Always Done: Indigenous Freedom through Radical Resistance”: “As We Have Always Done: Indigenous Freedom through Radical Resistance uses Indigenous interrogation, critique, and theory, and the grounded normativity these systems generate, as the intelligence system that instigates Indigenous resurgence, and is the process from which grounded, real world, Indigenous alternatives are manifested and realized. It employs Nishnaabeg storytelling practices as an algorithm—as coded processes that generate theoretical and lived solutions to the problems of occupation and erasure and to life on earth. It begins from a place of refusal of colonialism and its current settler colonial structural manifestation. It rejects dispossession, of both Indigenous bodies and land as the focal point of resurgent thinking and action. It continues the work of dismantling heteropatriarchy as a dispossessive force. It calls for the formation of networks of constellations of radical resurgent organizing as direct action within grounded normativities and against the dispossessive forces of capitalism, heteropatriarchy, and white supremacy. These are actions that engage in a generative refusal of an aspect of state control, so they don’t just refuse; they also embody an Indigenous alternative.”

The UBC Vancouver Campus

Musqueam House Posts
We encourage you to learn more about the Musqueam house posts that exist across campus. Jordan Wilson, Musqueam curator and writer, takes audiences on a tour of those posts. Each post has its own rich history, and in a video Wilson weaves the narratives that surround these works of art. Watch the video: http://bit.ly/houseposts.

Map of the Campus
The primary conference venues for HASTAC 2019 are the First Nations Longhouse (left side of map) and the AMS Student Nest (right side of the map). The Longhouse sits between Lower Mall and West Mall. To reach The Nest, walk toward East Mall.

For a link to the UBC Inclusion Map, which provides locations of gender-inclusive washrooms as well as breastfeeding spaces and prayer spaces, visit http://bit.ly/equityubc and then click, “Where can I find gender-inclusive washrooms on campus?” For help with wayfinding, don’t hesitate to ask a HASTAC coordinator or volunteer.

Floor Plan of the Nest, Level 2

Most HASTAC 2019 presentations will occur on Level 2 of The Nest. Presentations will occur in “large rooms” 2301, 2306, 2309, 2311, 2314, and 2504; in “small room” 2506; and in the Performance Theatre. Art and experimental media installations will be in the Art Gallery (called “The Hatch”). The quiet room is 2514, and the meeting / discussion room is 2515 (both “medium rooms”).
Dining on and near Campus
There are many places to dine on and near campus. We recommend the following restaurants, especially for dinner on Friday: The Point Grill, Mahoney & Sons, Virtuous Pie, Neptune Chinese Kitchen, BierCraft, Jamjar, Uncle Fatih’s Pizza, Tacomio, and Koerner’s Pub. Some of these venues may have space set aside for HASTAC 2019 attendees. Feel free to ask them prior to your visit or before you are seated.

Safewalk
Safewalk is a transportation service that accompanies students, staff, and visitors with its driving and walking teams across campus after dusk. Safewalk prioritizes those who are vulnerable and feel unsafe travelling alone, allowing them to travel with a greater sense of security from one location to another. The service is intended to give safe means of transportation when no other form is available. It runs from 9pm until 2am daily, and Safewalk is happy to assist anyone who is travelling alone to or from their accommodations or conference location. Their office is located in The Nest, Room 1314 (main level), and staff can assist with any questions or transport requests. You can also call them at (604) 822-5355 or use a UBC Blue Phone and ask for Safewalk.

Printing Services
If you need to print material on campus, then we recommend reviewing the UBC Library’s instructions at http://bit.ly/printubc. You may also want to consider Copiesmart (University Boulevard) and Staples (Allison Road), especially if you wish to print on Saturday.

Emergencies
If you need immediate emergency assistance, please call 911. If you need to anonymously report an incident, you can use UBC Security’s form at https://security.ubc.ca/. You can also call UBC Security at (604) 822-2222.

The Aboriginal Housing Management Association is the first of its kind not for profit Indigenous housing authority in Canada for all urban, rural and northern housing providers in British Columbia. We are for Indigenous by Indigenous.

INDIGENOUS HOUSING ISSUES NEED INDIGENOUS GOVERNMENT SOLUTIONS

AHMA represents Indigenous communities across BC. Over 5000 families, youth and seniors.

+1000 years of housing expertise accumulated between our members.

AHMA is committed to supporting the entire range along the housing continuum.
The Residential School History and Dialogue Centre is a Survivor-centred and trauma informed space. Working in collaboration with First Nations, Inuit and Métis peoples, the Centre works to support access, education, research and dialogue.

Come explore, listen and learn more about the legacy of the residential school system and the impact of colonialism.

Browse our interactive wall or explore our collections via kiosk.
